The Conservative papers in reporting the alliance between the Liberals and Parnellites, say that Lord Salisbury, counting on the support of the Queen will remain in power, and will not hesitate to dissolve Parliament again in case the coalition in question be carried out.

A great fire last night destroyed the drapery stores at the corner of Dayman and Mercedes. No accidents.

The report that the Brazilian Minister had sent in a petition to be withdrawn from this city is untrue.

OUR TRANSANDINE NEIGHBOURS.

The latest hobby in the London market is a juxtaposition of the finances of Chile and those of this country. Financiers of the calibre of Mr. F. Brabo begin by comparing the population of both countries, then their indebtedness, and finally the ratio of debt per head. According to this financial authority then, Bolivia would be far more prosperous than either Chile or the Argentine Republic. It is ever thus with the Spanish-American literature that struggles into the columns of the London papers, whether to attack or to defend the credit of the Argentine Republic, the wealthiest, most prosperous and most progressive state in South America, having left all its puny competitors, with the exception of the empire of Brazil, struggling behind in the race for wealth and progress.

An insight into Chilian finances, however, will suffice to show the small orbit in which our industrious neighbors revolve. Plunged in the throes of a financial and commercial crisis, the result of low prices of metals and cereals in Europe, and the necessary reaction after the inflation caused by the Peruvian War, the Chilian Government is now face to face with a state of affairs that would hurl that country into an abyss of ruin, were it burdened with one-half the indebtedness of the Argentine Republic.

Chile's foreign debt, which amounts to a nominal issue of 53 million dollars and is at present reduced by the process of accumulative sinking funds to 34,870.000$, burdens the Government with an annual service of 3½ million dollars. Here we see that our thrifty little neighbor's debt in the London market is 12 millions short of the present Argentine loan that was signed last week. It is a case of "parva componere magnis," since the Argentine Government owes in London now 138½ millions.

Chile's home debt amounts to a nominal issue of 58½ millions, at present reduced to 53½ millions, the service payable in Chilian paper money which to-day is at a discount of from 45 to 50 o/o. We may calculate the service on this debt at 4 millions. It is interesting to note that the nominal issue of home-debts in the Argentine Republic only amounts to 52 millions, including the 16 millions of the Provincial Bank which have been declared a gold loan; the service on the Argentine home debt amounts to 3½ millions per annum. If we deduct the Provincial Bank loan, the Argentine Home Debt amounts to a nominal issue of 36 millions. This striking difference between the respective amounts of the gold and paper loans of both countries is remarkable, and the real clue to the attacks in London against this country lies in the fact that all our home bonds are held in England; if such were the case with Chilian paperbonds, we should then hear a howl that would shut up all the wiseacres that are writing drivel against this republic.

Summing up, we see—

	Argentine	Chile
Gold Debt.....	138,700,000	53,000,000
Paper Debt.....	52,000,000	58,700,000
	190,700,000	111,700,000

Here we have the terrible figures that haunt our London friends to such an extent that they threaten to turn their eyes and their pockets to Chile. They may as well be prepared to do so, as Chile will be soon obliged to appeal to the London market for 20 to 30 million more dollars, and the London bankers may examine their consciences whether Chile with her small resources, though well-managed finances, is a better security than this glorious land where, although we always put the cart before the horse and try to upset a Government every six years, we double our commerce in five years, our wealth in ten, and replenish our territory at the rate of 100,000 Italian immigrants per annum. Whilst our London friends are crying for "three acres and one cow" we may invite them to cross the ocean and clamor here for "three leagues and three hundred cows." For every dollar that the Chilian Republic can bear the Argentine could carry 10; and every year is widening the distance and increasing the difference in the relative position of both States. The great vitality and growth of this country lie in the fertility and cheapness of the soil and in the multiplication of numbers, whether human or animal. Our population is increasing at the rate of 4 o/o by immigration alone, and there is no other country on the face of the globe augmenting its numbers at this rate; we doubt if the United States in its palmiest days of immigration could boast this proportion of increase. None of the sister republics on this continent can compare or compete in any regard with this country; ten years ago they might, but to-day it is quite out of the question, and none are better aware of the fact than those who are writing against this country in London. All their drivel has failed to shake the gold stocks of the country, and shareholders and bondholders connected with Argentine enterprises and Argentine debts would be foolish, indeed, if, under the influence of the clap-trap literature of the financial journalists, they sold their stocks.

Although Chile cannot bear comparison with this country in regard to progress and resources, she enjoys the blessings of sound and ably managed finances. She has not appealed like her Argentine sister every three months to the London market, nor has she fettered herself to bankers or syndicates as we have done, and in this respect Chile deserves the highest encomium; but there is no doubt that if she had behaved as extravagantly as the Argentine Government, she would be completely ruined to-day.

In spite of her small public debt, of her excellent credit, and of her sound finances, Chile is in a far worse plight than the Argentine Republic. The fall in prices in Europe has been very nearly a death-blow to the production of grain, and on a minor scale to her mining industry. Commercial affairs are in such a bad condition that the gold price fluctuates between 90 and 100 o/o premium, and this state of forced currency threatens to last much longer in Chile than in this country, where two years' economy and increase of production will pull us through the greatest financial shoals.

Chile's geographical position is most disadvantageous, and the future looks very black for our neighbors, unless the Panama Canal turns out a success. Argentines can afford to see wool fall to less than 2$m/n per arrobe: they can stand another decline in produce all along the line, and they can compete in their articles of production with any other country under the sun. Such is not the case with Chile, where wheat-growing must soon collapse as a ruinous industry and where mining only gives a fraction of the profits of former years. People must be dreaming, if they allow themselves to be lured into the delusion that our Transandine neighbors are more prosperous than Argentines. The very insignificance of their debt and relatively large proportions of their crisis are the very best proof of the immense superiority of this country, with its National Debt of 200 millions, to which we may add another hundred millions of provincial indebtedness. This country only needs an able financier to extricate the Government from the present entanglement. In the absence of this financier, immigration, increased production and economy of the people will bring the country round, although the process will be slower than if the cure were in the hands of a Government determined to retrench and cut out the cancer of fiscal extravagance.

THE HIPPODROME.

AUTUMN MEETING.

Sunday broke gloriously for the last important race meeting of this year. The day, even at noon, was not perspiringly hot, and yet was free from that dull, leaden, rainy look that depresses alike the spirits and the thermometer. An immense crowd of people, perhaps the largest we have ever seen in Palermo, turned up from all quarters and by every mode of conveyance conceivable, from the humble "mudanza" cart to the gaily-crested carriage; and the day's sport was worthy of the gathering.

The beau sexe were worthily represented and relieved many sun-tired eyes by the fragrant freshness of their toilettes, and many heavy pockets, we trow, by stiff mortgages on gloves; for they always pin their faith to the blue and white, and faith they carried the day.

Our tipstaff—we should, perhaps, say "tipster"—tipped STANDARD readers the proper tips this time. He ran the winners, the whole lot, to a hair's breath—got three firsts, one second, lost one through his selection being injudiciously and imprudently disregarded by the owner, and the other—well, we leave that to more unbiassed witnesses to decide. Coronel's backers were legion, and they piled on the agony—alias the paper dollars—to a stupendous extent. Several worthy citizens and good fellows almost lost their tempers, ties and "tiles" in their efforts to get on; but if they got on, which we devoutly hope, they had the intense gratification of seeing their hero give everything else in the race a big beating. He cantered home in front of a field of eight, the winner of a third big prize and unmistakably the best three-year-old colt in the country over any distance.

Neptune gave backers another glimpse of his quality by playing with his field. General, although reported somewhat amiss, seems to have taken it into his head lately to head matters, and we knew he could do it when he liked. The game little Bonnie Bee was a good second. Surplice showed his liking for the Palermo "round" by spread-eagling a field of eight, giving everything heaps of weight; and Pegaso gave his admirers a good return for their trust and confidence in a substantial dividend. Pincheira's win, says public opinion, was due more to sufferance than merit. As far as racing went, the race must have been about the fastest ever run on that course; every flagstaff was made a winning-post, and at any time, even at the finish, a common blanket, to say nothing of the camisa de once varas, which backers foolishly put their heads into, would have covered the lot.

BEAUSOLEIL STAKES.

Open Handicap. Prize, $600 m/n. Distance, 1000 metres.

Stud. Palermo's Pegaso, Pembroke-Anita, 4 yrs, 59 kilos..... 1
E Casal's Carte Blanche, 4 yrs, 55 kilos..... 2
Casey Bros.' Signet, 4 yrs, 60 kilos.. 3
Also ran Diana and Sweetheart.

Sport showed—Diana 507, Signet 1542, Pegaso 691, Sweetheart 727, Carte Blanche 666, tickets sold.

The lot got off to a fair start, after several ineffectual attempts, with the blue and white making the pace pretty hotly in the van, Pegaso just behind, and little Diana tailed off from the start. Rounding the curve, Pegaso was pushed and came away with Sweetheart and Signet, both of whom, however, soon dropped away, and although Carte Blanche gave a vigorous challenge, she could never make Pegaso gallop.

Sport gave $10.76.

KETTLEDRUM STAKES.

Open Handicap. Prize, $700 m/n. Distance, 1750 metres.

Stud Palermo's Neptune, Buckingham-Miss Tatton, 5 yrs, 57 kilos..... 1
Stud B. Ayres Kettledrum, 3 yrs, 57 kilos..... 2
Stud Belgrano's Max, 4 yrs, 53 kilos. 3
Also ran Banjo.

Sport—Neptune 1399, Banjo 154, Kettledrum 453, Max 483.

Kettledrum got away with the lead, Max holding second position and Neptune third. Down to the turn they ran without change, when Max had to give way to Neptune who went up to Kettledrum. Coming into the straight, however, the Phœnix filly still led and looked like lasting, but Neptune would not be denied, and he won a good race rather easily by about half a length. Max was third, and Banjo, beaten the whole way, last.

Sport gave $3.20

MUNICIPAL STAKES.

For three-year olds. Prize, 2000 m/n. Distance, 3500 metres.

Casey Bros.' Coronel, Lord Hastings-My Mary Anne, 60 kilos..... 1
Stud B. Aires Escoces, 62 kilos..... 2
Stud Santa Teresa's Salvato, 56 kilos.. 3
Also ran—Intendente, Sweetheart, Boccacio, Good-bye, Tel-el-Kebir and La Perla.

Sport—Eccoces 1462, Coronel 2734, Intendente 461, Sweetheart 92, Salvato 176, Boccacio 328, Good-bye, 490, Tel-el-Kebir 176, La Perla 211.

The lot got off all together, La Perla last; but Sweetheart's bit got astray and she cleared away out of telescopic range almost of her field before she could be steadied. Coronel led the rest of the field at a fair pace the whole of the first round with Escoces at his heels. Three-quarters of the race done, Sweetheart compounded, and Coronel and Escoces drew clear away from their field, and ran a magnificent race to the turn, where Escoces showed symptoms of distress, and as a last resource his jockey tried, being on the outside, to "rope" Coronel by closing him in on the rails, and thereby compelling Coronel's jockey to take a pull at his horse and to take the outside. After twenty lengths he got on terms with Escoces again, passing him easily and winning by several lengths. Salvato ran Escoces to a head for second place, everything else beaten off. We have no hesitation in saying that the Coronel has proved himself the fastest horse of the year as well as the best stayer.

Sport gave $4.03.

SURPLICE STAKES.

For three-year-olds. Prize 600 m/n Distance, 1000 metres.

Casey Bros.' General, Earl Clifden-Princess B. Belle, 55½ kilos..... 1
Stud B. Aires B. Bee, 55½ kilos..... 2
Stud Palermo's Cora, 51 kilos 3
Also ran—Leonor, Iridio and Bonheur.

Sport—General 1204, Bonnie Bee 1746, Leonor 546, Iridio 311, Cora 974, Bonheur 323.

The lot got away pretty well together. Bonnie Bee took up the running and made the pace too hot for a weedy field, followed by General. Coming into the straight, General overhauled the leader, and won by any number of lengths. Cora took third honours.

Sport gave 7.32

LA QUINUA STAKES.

Open Handicap. Prize, 800 m/n. Distance, 3500 metres.

Stud B. Aires' Pincheira, Porteño-Mestizo, 5 yrs, 49 kilos..... 1
Stud B. Aires' Souvenir, 4 yrs, 49 kilos 2
Stud Esperanza's Hebreo, 6 yrs, 50 kilos 3

Sport—Hebreo 1255, Souvenir 1116, Pincheira 1999.

The race needs little description as the three kept together the whole time, the pace being as fast as if the distance were 1,000 instead of 3,500 metres. Pincheira just got in a neck before Souvenir, who was a length in front of the Jew. Souvenir was scarcely persevered with enough to please his friends. However they had a good run for their money, if they didn't win.

Sport gave 3.93 $m/n.

The jockeys of Souvenir and Pincheira were found guilty of swindling by the committee of Jockey Club, and had their certificates suspended.

LAS ROSAS HANDICAP.

For three year olds. Prize 800 $m/n. Distance, 1,750 metres.

Stud Buenos Aires' Surplice, Phœnix-Priestess, 52 kilos..... 1
A. P. Jacquemin's Miss Rovel, 51 kilos..... 2
Stud San Juan's Iris..... 3
Also ran—Luther, Belvoir, Cora and Rolando.

The first to show in front was Iris, with Miss Rovel and Surplice just behind, and he held the lead until the three quarter round when Surplice went past like a rocket and although gamely challenged by Miss Rovel shook her off easily and cantered home, the easiest of winners. The big impost he carried home with such ease stamps Surplice as an unusually good horse over a round, which is about the distance he likes best. Miss Rovel was the only thug else in the race that seemed able to gallop.

Sport gave 3.50 $m/n.

The train arrangements under Mr. Munro's own eagle eye were a most marked improvement on former occasions, and every one was able to drink to Coronel's health and future victories without having spirits ruffled by inglorious skirmishing with the subordinate officials of the Buenos Aires Northern.

J. L. M.

MONTEVIDEO.

(From our casual Correspondent.)

Saturday, Dec. 12.

The week has been most monotonous: not even the vivacity and bitterness of the opposition, nor the rebuffs and admonitions of the Government papers, troubled the dulness in which the inclement weather enveloped our usually gay and careless city. The rain rendered out-door amusement impossible, and the bathers must, indeed, have grumbled at the sudden change of the weather. Nevertheless, many, like myself, to dispel the irrepressible feeling of disgust at the cheerless prospects of a rainy day, had recourse to the "derniere resource"—a quiet reading of the latest B. Ayrean papers. After an indefinite deal of self persuasion, I reluctantly took up a number of the Censor. A foreigner, indeed, feels refreshed by the quaint originality, soft simplicity, and easy style of that relic of nobler days, who condemns the sword as the instrument of tyranny and the bullock cart, it might be added, as the last vestige of barbarism. With what philosophic mirth Don Domingo eyes his opponents: no doubt in censuring the errors, and faintly praising the progress of the present administration, he feels the superiority of a father, the delight of a veteran, not unmingled perhaps, with jealousy. The ex-president derives mystical love from the sunset of life, but if he do net take care, if unlike Victor Hugo, he have not put by some unpublished manuscripts, he will outlive the reputation which his once powerful pen built for him at many costs and sacrifices.

Now that the Presidential term of office draws to a close, political excitement sways the mind of the public, and the voice of the people begins to be heard. As I remarked in a previous correspondence, it is not probable General Santos will either offer himself for re-election or accept the dictatorship, the latter honor, history tells us, being fraught with danger. To violate the constitution, trample under foot the laws of a country, and break through the limits imposed by the unanimous will of the people, would be an open insult, perhaps a fatal blow, to the Republic. Such a step would involve the usual, disastrous consequences, and the welfare of the country, its interests, its prosperity and progress, would be crushed under the ruins of a shattered state. General Santos is a clever statesman; his knowledge of history and his own foresight have already presented to his eyes the tableau of calamitous events, that would inevitably result from the injustice of a reelection or the violence of a usurpation of power. Such are his views, to judge from the speeches pronounced at the meeting of Deputies at his house yesterday. Deputy Freire, the most ardent advocate of the reelection, urged the General to resume the reins of power, and pointed out the imaginary necessity of violating the constitution. President Santos, in reply, stated his decision to respect the sacred laws of his country, and leave power on the expiration of his term of office. This, then, is the third time that he has emphatically refused to stand for reelection; and he is right, for those who love not Santos less, but Montevideo more, would not for a moment hesitate to join the ranks of the opposition, and thus undermine the security of the State.

The question now arises: Who is to be President. The President of the Chambers is a likely candidate and not unfit for the high honour. Tajes and Castro are proposed by many, and not a few proclaim their intention to support Dr. Terra, our worthy Minister of Finance. All are honourable men and equally fitted to steer the ship of state; but probabilities point to the President of the Chambers. However, our doubts will soon be dispelled, and the meeting to take place next Tuesday will probably cut the knot. In the mean time, the opposition, 'faute de mieux,' attack the financial position of the country; happily their gross accusations are limited within the bounds of the Republic; for if they crossed the ocean the wary and watching capitalist would be alarmed and the very sinews of the country cut. The independent papers are calmed by the President's declarations; and we have the pleasing prospect of less political abuse and more fine weather.

We are to have another bull-fight tomorrow, weather permitting. I remark that the bull-fight is not so much a slaughter of bulls as of horses. What cruel delight people can take in the spectacle of a horse being gored by a bull and running round the ring with half its entails out, is more than many can understand. One would not mind the "banderelleros," "matadores," and "toreros," being wounded in the fight, they are paid to risk their lives, and it is a shame to see them escape unscathed, while the noble animals they mount are subjected to the torture of being ruthlessly gored by the infuriated bulls. The spectators appland but there are no doubt many amongst them who would, for a change only half reluctantly witness the death of one or two of the "matadores." Such an accident, although far from being desirable, would teach a severe lesson, and persuade, perhaps, the Gallito to spare the horses which so materially contribute to the success of the fight. The same feelings and taste for blood, that prevailed at the Roman amphitheatre, are doubtless now concealed under the thin mask of our modern civilization: but they are these still, and opportunity is alone required to prove that their intensity has not diminished. The bull-ring will be crowded to-morrow, and the Gallito will reap large profits from the slaughter of a few animals. It is interesting to note that the unwashed and unrefined elements are conspicuous at the bull-fights; perhaps this is the only redeeming feature of the cruel sport.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

LORD SALISBURY'S CONFESSION OF FAITH.

November 16th.

In about four weeks hence, and perhaps before this reaches you, a telegram will give you the result of the elections. There will be no occasion for me to allude to them more except to refer to Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian campaign the week after next, and to notice anything remarkable, such as Lord Salisbury's brilliant speech last night at the "Vic.," in the Borough. Already even Liberal papers are advising their friends not to be so "cock-sure," as they seem to be, as to the return of their party to power; and it is quite evident that this Church Question has partly taken the wind out of their sails. Lord Salisbury appears to found his hopes on three leading questions: the necessity of imposing differential and retaliatory duties in favor of the Colonies, or in favor of any interestat home affected by high duties levied abroad, the security of capital and property, and the union of Church and State. Lord Salisbury declares himself an ardent Free Trader, but he refuses to join in that fetish worship which would attribute all good to Free Trade, and would carry its tenets to an excess. His views on the retaliatory duties are summed up in this quotation—"Spain, let us say, treats our manufacturers very badly, and excludes them while she admits the manufactures of other countries. If we were able to say to her, 'if you continue in that course we shall be obliged to raise the duties on your wines' (cheers), it is very possible a new light might break upon her reflections (laughter.) But we cannot do that, because we are forbidden to do it, because retaliation is a mortal sin under the doctrine of Free Trade. (A Voice—'Shame,' and loud cheers.) I utterly deny that the doctrine of Free Trade has anything to do with it (cheers.) Why, raising the tariff on sherry is not an act of Protection, because, except a very limited number of persons, nobody produces sherry in this country, and those who do had better not (laughter.) Again, it is not an article of prime consumption, the food of the people, because we do not all of us drink sherry (laughter and a voice—'Poor man's beer.') Just so. A poor man's sherry I never heard of. It is simply an act of fiscal war. War is a bad thing. We should abolish it if we could, but it is the only way of defending ourselves from wrong."

I am not quoting the finest parts of Lord Salisbury's speech, but only those passages which are typical of his opinions. You observe the cleverness of his singling out Spain and her sherry. The "fiscal war" would soon be levied against Germany, France and the United States. I confess, it it is very difficult to prevail on one's self to declare against retaliation; it appeals so powerfully to our dander, cupidity and combative feelings; but it is obvious, unless we could come to terms with all the great commercial nations, which in their present mind is very unlikely, we must either forego our passion for retaliation or the principles of Free Trade. We must make a commercial treaty with Spain, because her highly alcoholic wines are subject to a relatively heavy duty in this country for fiscal purposes, not for protective purposes. It is the same with France and Germany in regard to wines and spirits; but does Lord Salisbury think us so feeble as to believe that retaliation, when absolutely commenced, would stop at wine and spirits? The sugar refiner would at once require countervailing duties, and Lord Salisbury almost hints that he is prepared to propose differential duties in favor of the West Indies and the Colonies. If the Conservatives come in keep a look out on wool and frozen mutton, &c. Lord Salisbury, however, knows that this cannot be. He is cleverly appealing to the cupidity of the middle and lower classes, as in grossly misrepresenting Mr. Chamberlain's socialistic proclivittes he appeals to the passions of the propertied classes. As an electioneering device I cannot say that he is wrong; but not a phrase in his polished harangue would bear analysis, and the speech is, in fact, a tissue of inveracious insinuations and half-truths. He is more happy in humorously attacking Mr. Gladstone's shiftiness and the tergiversation of what he calls the "Cabinet of all the Irresolutions." What is to beexpected of Mr. Gladstone on the Church question must be described in Lord Salisbury's own lively words. He says:—

"Not only had you this announcement from Mr. Chamberlain, the most active and energetic of the Liberal leaders—not only had you his denunciation of the Church couched in the language of the utmost acrimony, delivered by him, both, I think, at Glasgow and Bradford, but you had this other very remarkable phenomenon—you have 500 Liberal candidates pledged already to Disestablishment (hear, hear.) Do you call that a sleeping lion? (cheers and laughter.) And when the matter was brought before the Leaders of the Liberal Party what notice did they take of it? Well, Lord Derby always thought it must come (laughter), and he offered Wales as an instalment (laughter). Mr. Goschen absolutely declined to pledge himself for or against; but when pushed very hard he said he would do precisely what Mr. Gladstone did (laughter). And Mr. Gladstone said that he could not discern the dim and distant courses of the future, but that he did not think it would do people so much harm as they thought (laughter). Well, perhaps you think, as Mr. Gladstone seems to think himself, that that was an authoritative expressiou of opinion of friends of the Church. I want you to interpret Mr. Gladstone's language as it ought to be interpreted—namely, by Mr. Gladstone's own former language. You must not interpret Japanese by Chinese (hear, hear). You must not interpret Mr. Gladstone's sentences by the language of ordinary Englishmen (laughter). Gladstone must be interpreted by Gladstone, and by no other interpretation (renewed laughter). And now I want you, remembering the "dim and distant courses of futurity"—I want you to hear what Mr. Gladstone said about the Irish Church two years and-a-half before he moved the Resolutions which destroyed it (cheers.) This was June 8th, 1865. Remember that it was early in 1868 that he moved the Resolutions by which the Irish Church was destroyed. "The question," he said "was remote (hear), and apparently out of bearing on the practical politics of the day" (hear). Then, at the end of the letter, he expressed the hope that the gentleman he was writing to would "see and approve my reasons for not wishing to carry my own mind further into the question lying at a distance which I cannot measure" (loud laughter.) These are rather "dim and distant courses." We know exactly what they mean; they mean exactly two years and three-quarters (loud laughter.) Now, we might have been misled by that language once before, but surely we shall never be taken in by it again (hear, hear).

The Times is very angry with Lord Salisbury for abusing the Whig leaders. The Times is evidently trimming its sails for a Conservative Government and hopes for a coalition between the timid Liberals and their old opponents to keep Radicalism in check. What is much more likely is that if the Conservatives come in, their majority will be too small to work with, and they will give way to a Hartington cum Goschen Ministry which will be supported by the Conservatives.

A Conservative calculation, which is given as careful and official, claims 300 seats in the elections in addition to 50 milk-and-water Liberals. This with 80 or 100 Parnellists would work; but the whole thing is beyond speculation, as no one knows how the new constituency will vote. In the London papers we read only the opinions of the upper and middle-classes, and their day has gone by; if not in this election, in the next.

There was an amusing case of 'heckling' at Edinburgh. Amongst other things a Mr. Forbes asked the candidate, Major Napier, if he would vote for the lengthening of the kilts of the Highland troops, particularly the gallant 93rd. Major Napier refused to reply, and no doubt, thought the question disloyal, knowing the reverence the kilts inspire in the eyes of the Queen. Her Majesty has never been heard to express an opinion in favour of alteration, and certainly not in regard to the lengthening of kilts.

In foreign affairs the most striking feature is the apparent truckling of Lord Salisbury to the Court and the Battenberg interest. Otherwise, as one of the makers of the Berlin Treaty, his standing out against the other Powers for the keeping of Eastern Roumelia by Prince Alexander is inexplicable. It is one of Lord Salisbury's crazes to imagine himself destined to be the Burleigh of this century; and the conception of Her Majesty as the virgin queen would present no difficulty to his imagination.

It is reported in New York that Mr. Jay Gould is about to retire from active participation in his Wall-street business, leaving the management of his affairs to his son, George Gould. Mr. Gould has seen how easily Mr. Field has retired from active life, while still exerting a deep influence on the stock market, and he desires to follow his example. Besides, for the last year or two it has been impossible to make large amounts of money in Wall-street, and Mr. Gould has probably had his share of bad fortune. Estimates of his fortune are made now, in Wall-street, on the rumour that he is to retire. Nobody seems to know much about it, and figures varying from £4,000,000 to £20,000,000 are spoken of. It is understood that if Mr. Gould retires he will come to England in his yacht, and travel for some time upon the Continent.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Comments on Sunday's races at Palermo are numerous, and the Jockey Club is feeling the full force of arguments in favor of fair play and against foul practices. In the race for the Municipal prize there was another fresh case of 'roping' or 'cannoning,' or whatever it may be termed, in which the gallant winner of the race was run in against the wires and obliged to pull up and make a fresh start. Although this is only one side of the question, the fact leaves ample room for conjecture as this foul game has been played twice with the same horse. It was also remarkable to hear the whole stand hissing the winner of the fifth race which was ridden in such a flagrant and scandalous manner that a complaint was lodged against the jockeys of Souvenir and Pincheira, belonging to the Stud Buenos Aires. It is, indeed, most melancholy that nearly every race meeting at Palermo and La Plata should be the scene for the renewal of these practices and the public hope that the new year will dawn with some reforms, the salutary effect of which may influence a change in the racing of some favorite stables that are at present viewed with suspicion.

The employeés of the Platense Company have presented the popular agent of that line, Mr. Peter Christophersen a superb wedding gift, consisting of two bronze and onyx jars, veritable works of art rarely seen in this part of the globe. The marriage will take place to-morrow evening, in the German church in Calle Esmeralda, and in Mr Alvear's house. The fair bride will have for bridesmaids Mesdlles Eliza Alvear, Maria Christophersen, Maria Arning, Rita Gonzalez, Hortensia Berdier and Luisa Doso.

An esteemed evening colleague publishes some highly unpleasant things about the State Model Farm in Mendoza. Our colleague says that every farmer turned out of that school, if it ever does turn out a farmer, will have cost the State 2½ millions of nats each. Oh! Oh! Oh! We'll buy a bag of salt wherewith to swallow this news.

An Italian in Bragado brutally murdered a countryman for a turkey the other day.

Amongst the 1,500 emigrants who have arrived in the Matteo Bruzzo are 350 whose passages were paid by friends or relatives already settled in this country. Asisted immigration is all blown to the winds by the tremendous flow of the spontaneous article.

The Revista Médica recommends the Asistencia Publica to order the systematic disinfection of every house in town. It's all fiddlestick. As well try to disinfect the moon. Buenos Ayres is so 'pestified' by its 'letrina' system that only when the Drainage Works shall have been 10 years in action can we hope for any real disinfection of the subsoil of the city, the contamination of which is the cause of all our sanitary woes.

There was an appalling stench at the Boca on Sunday. The river was so low that every vessel in the Riachuelo was stuck in the mud. There was only a breadth of a dozen metres of water. The rest was all pestilential mud of the most horrible kind.

Argentine ling is the latest thing in the 'menu.' A factory is to be started at Tuyu, and the 'curbina' is to do duty for the codfish.

A ventriloquist in Calle Rioja is having great fun with all the idiots in the neighbourhood (the police and Municipal authories amongst them) by making groans come nightly from an old 'letrina.' The fools have been digging away like Whang the Miller, to get at what they call the mystery, and the tenants have fled from the house, declaring that the devil is in it.

There is an epidemic of suicide. 'Pasеantes' at the Recoleta on Sunday were horrified to see a man hanging dead from a tree in one of the glades near the river. The precious police know nothing of the tragedy till the public discovered it. A sheebaug-keeper in the neighbourhood said he knew the man as a day labourer.

There was a big crowd at the Santa Lucia fetes on Sunday night. The Archbishop laid the foundation stone of the new church at 5½ p.m.; the Corso began at 6; the fireworks ended at 11, and everybody went home to bed thoroughly done up.

There is a lot of unpleasantness in potatoe and carrot circles, owing to all the market gardeners patronising the Mercado Modelo and giving the others in the city the go-by. We dont understand the merits of the quarrel, but take it for granted that it is a pretty one as it stands.

The London papers of 12th Nov. give the following:—

"An extraordinary darkness prevailed all over the metropolis the whole of yesterday. It was not a fog, but the sky presented a dark leaden appearance. Gas and other artificial light had to be used the whole of the day in all houses and places of business. Traffic in the streets was much impeded, and was carried on in some districts only with difficulty. The river steamers were unable to run.

Another 'arqueo' fraud is announced. Things are getting so tremendously on the loose in this department that we expect soon to hear that the Great Eastern herself, the 'boss' ship of the world, has been under-registered. Things are not what they seem in the registration of tonnage line.

"The cry is, still they come." One thousand emigrants were landed from the La France yesterday.

Manzotti's latest ballet 'Love' has created an immense sensation in Italy. Ferrari ought to make a push to produce it here next year instead of Excelsior, which is already old. Everything and everybody get old prematurely in this helterskelter 19th century. It is to be hoped that the 20th will be more sober, and better-behaved.

There was a queer scene in Calle Florida on Sunday night owing to two 'crudo' swells from Tucuman following two well-known married ladies along Calle Florida and into the hall of their house in that street, where they attempted to kiss them. The ladies screamed, and out rushed their husbands and a friend of the house who was dining with them. One of the Tucumanos most judiciously took to his heels, but the other stood to his guns like a man, and was most unfairly mauled by the two indignant husbands and their friend, who forgot in their wrath that three against one is by no means fair or honourable fighting. The whole lot wound up in the Comisaria. Young, or middle-aged gents from the provinces should be more careful who they follow in the street. We forgot to mention that the three adversaries of the gallant Tucumano were mean enough to tear off one of the tails of his Sunday frockcoat in the scuffle. The sympathies of the crowd were entirely with this Tucumano. (Not with the one who ran away; he proved such a prudent dog); but it was rather naughty to follow the ladies in the street.

The Zoophiles are not doing their duty as regards overcrowding of tramways. It is outrageous, scandalous, cruel in the extreme. Coming down Calle Cuyo yesterday two poor brutes stopped a dozen times under a car that was not overcrowded. They seemed half-fed; yet the pair of horses taken from a car behind to replace them pulled the car painfully when it became monstrously overcrowded, so it cannot be short commons. In any case the Zoophiles ought to have been there.

The Minister of the Interior had a most enthusiastic reception in Rosario on Sunday. H.E. is justly popular everywhere.

See another column for full 'ticlars' of the races on Sunday. The day was glorious, the attendance large, and we won enough new hats on Colonel to last us for two years and a half, at the rate of a hat a month. There was one accident. A carriage tumbled into a 'laguna,' the horses having bolted while the nigger driver was 'ginning' up in a 'pulperia.' A lady in the vehicle threw herself out, escaped drowning, and was hard

We really cannot answer all the applications that come to us now from all parts of the globe (We shall not be suprised some day to get a letter from some enterprising Laplander anxious to come here.) Yesterday we had a letter from an 'all-round journalist' in Brooklyn, stating that the newspaper business is so cut up in the United States that he cannot get salt for his porridge, and would like a place on our editorial staff. We are very sorry we cannot oblige him; nor could we advise him conscientiously to come out here on the chance of newspaper work. If unmarried, our correspondent should pitch journalism to the dogs and try something else, at home or here.

A German farmer named Kitches shot himself dead with great deliberation on Sunday in the Comisaria near the Lacroze station. He was arrested by a policeman for wandering about in a 'queer' way, as if not right in his head. As he could not explain him self, not speaking Spanish, he was locked up with a drunken negro, and the key was hardly turned on him when he fired three shots from a revolver into his heart, and with truly desperate resolve discharged the other three barrels while in the agonies of death. He only arrived from Hamburg five days ago. It shows a monstrous remissness in the Commissary to lock up a man evidently with a troubled mind and leave a loaded revolver in his possession.

The bull-fight at Colonia on Sunday was "regular," and the audience "bastante" so. One of the "bandarilleros" was tossed by a bull, to the delight of the refined spectators, but was not hurt a bit.

Mr. Vega, the ball-player, fell suddenly ill on Sunday during the game in Plaza Euskara, and all the bets had to be declared off; our Spanish friends not understanding the p.p. system. Chiquito de Eibar won a scratch match.

Who would have thought it? They started a tramway on Sunday in that enterprising town Rio Cuarto.

To-morrow will be a great day in political circles, as all the parties opposed to Dr Celman will meet to concert means to trip him up in the Presidential race. The London papers seem to think that he won't be tripped up. Tripping has always been considered fair in love, war and football; at least when we were at school, ever so long ago, it was.

The Times is yielding to the vice of the age and is beginning to write uncommonly queer Queen's English. The expression "has at length been Englished" smacks decidedly of the wrong side of the Atlantic. Here is where we find it:—

"Salammbó, the masterpiece of Flaubert, the founder of the naturalistic school of literature, followed and debased by Zola and others, has at length been Englished by M. French Sheldon, and is now in the press. This fascinating story of love and war, rich in heroic Carthaginian lore, set in glowing barbaric splendour, surrounded with an atmosphere of dreamy tropical warmth and local colour, and with its weird serpent scene and mysterious cults, has long been regarded as an untranslatable work. It is said that this delicate task has been accomplished in such a subtle manner as to preserve all the vigour, natural realism, and idyllic style of the original.

"Flaubert's works have inspired more pictures in the French Salon during the past few years than any book except the Bible. The appearance of Salammbó in English is looked forward to with great interest in the literary and art circles of the Continent. The introduction has been written by Edward King, the American poet, and the volume is dedicated to Henry M. Stanley, the famous explorer. The work will be published by Saxon and Co., London and New York."

"I tell you I've married and angel." "Oh, no doubt. Wait until you've been married as long as I have." "She's all smiles; never a cross word. Her voice is as sweet as the sound of a harp. Her—" "Oh, she reminds you of a harp, does she? Inside of a year she'll remind you of an accordion." "Why of an accordion?" "Because she'll make the most noise when you attempt to shut her up."

Cedulas G 83½

The week has opened with a falling gold market, and some of the strongest people in the market are selling out their gold, as the scarcity of paper is already so much felt that if the delivery of gold at the end of the month is heavy there will be no paper in the market to pay for it. Many people judge the attitude of the market by the character and position of the sellers. Those who sell now are known to have the gold and also known to have the very freshest and best advices from London and Paris. Their brokers are well known on 'Change, and when it is seen that one broker alone sells within the last few days between cash and for end of month over one million pats the conviction becomes general that the market is on the eve of a very great fall, which may be still more accentuated by deep political motives.

The notes of the Provincial Bank have now become so scarce in the market that one broker proposes to sell gold under the market rates provided the purchaser pay for same exclusively in Provincial Bank notes, a scheme which we consider impossible, however we report it merely to show those of our readers who do not frequent the Bolsa the feeling in the market. Beyond doubt, if the Provincial Bank continues its present policy of drawing in its circulation and discounting nothing, we shall have ere long a commercial crisis; already the discount brokers complain loudly, and as a great favor some first class pagarés were done by a private bank at 9 o/o, but as a rule merchants must now hold their pagarés until their "vencimientos".

Gold opened cash at 141.50 and closed at 141.30; 320,420 sold. For Saturday 235 000 sold at 141.20. For the end of the month there was a tremendous business done, the sales summing up to 1,105,000, opening at 141.50, dropping to 141, and closing at 141.20. For January 31st the sales were 215,000, opening at 141.50, dropping to 141, and closing at 141.20. The total sales of the day reached the enormous figure of 1,889,420, which shows the speculation going on; as a rule the buyers of all this gold are parties who sold short a week ago and who now secure their profits.

30 Old Gas Shares sold at 2,000, which is considered a low price for this splendid dividend paying stock.

Cedulas, only Series G dealt in, 41,200 cash at 83¾ and 20,000 for end of month at 83¾.

Telegrams were received from London this morning confirming our advices of Saturday of £500,000 engaged for the Galileo, to be shipped to-morrow.

Mr Holloway, from London, the representative of Messrs Cory Bros., London and Cardiff, was welcomed on 'Change. This is his first visit to B. Ayres, and he pleads to the most favorable impressions.

Buenos Ayres is at present filled to overflowing with visitors from Europe, most of whom have come out here with the intention of settling in the country. All our hotels are crammed full, but we must impress upon our friends that the very worst stand-point from which to judge or view this fine country is from the little window of a narrow room in one of our city hotels. People, to judge the country, should go out to the estancias and on the back of a good horse, on a fine morning, and galloping over magnificent camps that may be one's own for a few thousand pounds, one catches a true glimpse of the R. Plate. Hundreds have come out from Europe and gone back again, having only seen the country from the Provence or La Paix Hotel windows. The judgment of such people must necessarily be worth nothing. They arrive, leave, and live in error, and it is to the errors of such people that we owe the falling off of English influence and English enterprise in the River Plate. In the hopes that many of our visitors will plunge into the camps and see something more of the R. Plate than the pavement of Buenos Ayres, we throw out these remarks.

The following is a summary of operations effected this morning at the ring during official hours:—

The sale of 1000 novillos mestizos from Don Leonardo Pereyra's estancia at $40 m/n. each is a sale worthy of note, showing the importance of breeding good cattle. These novillos are bought by the Rural Society for export in one of the frozen steamers, and we may here note that this same estanciero who gets 40 m/n for his mestizo novillos, sold on Saturday 8000 criollo novillos at 10 m/n.

In exchange there was nothing even talked of to-day. It is supposed that the Provincial Bank will draw for the mail of 17th, but the rate is not yet fixed, and, as gold is falling, the National Bank will have to alter its drawing rates.

The death of Mr John Moore Glover at Liverpool, an old and respected Rio Janeiro merchant, is announced by the Diario.

To-day the saladeristas of this province began working, and as the country is full of "novillos" and the estancieros want to sell, it is thought the "faena" will be a large and a remunerative one.

The fine Italian steamer Matteo Bruzzo has arrived with 1,366 emigrants on board; never before have we had such heavy arrivals of emigrants and notwithstanding to all this labor is as dear as ever, and for "chacras" and farm concessions at the colonies, prices are positively advancing.

Mr Denner, of Esperanza colony, arrived down last week and has gone for a few days to Montevideo; he reports all the colonies thriving.

The Railway to Rosario stands for public inauguration on New Year's day. Everyone asks what on earth is the delay about the Transandine or Pacific Railway, which should have been opened to Picassa more than a month ago.

We have received from a city merchant a most interesting article on the Panama Canal, published in one of the London papers. We note that the commissions in this enterprise surpass everything hitherto known or heard of, £40,000 stg. per mile. We hope in a few days to be able to publish the article in question.

The gold market at afterhours ruled most excited, and up to within a few minutes of 5 o'clock prices were dropping to 140,80, when the news spread that the National Bank change would its drawing rate of exchange to the following:—
On Paris 3.55 francs
On London 34d.
The gold market at once fell and a well-known French broker sold 15,000 for to-morrow at 140.50; more was offered for to-morrow but only buyers could be found for the end of the month; as the bell rang out the last sale was made for the end of the month at 140.70. market closed sellers.

It is rumoured on 'Change that from the beginning of the new year the National Bank will pay 5 dividends at the rate of 12 per cent, and the balance over that at the end of the year.

Twenty nats were paid this evening for the right to deliver 100,000 at the end of month at 130, and the boleto was afterwards sold for 30 nats; 20,000 nats were offered for end of month at 134, with right to deliver 40,000 at same rate, and refused.

Money rules tighter than ever, particularly in speculative circles.

The New Zealand Parliament defeated an attempt by the Government to pass a protective tariff. It imposed additional direct taxes and added to the floating debt instead. Meanwhile the colony is developing productive industries very rapidly. It has, however, constructed railroads in advance of requirements, burdening the country with interest on non-productive lines. There is considerable outcry among the unemployed, but seeing that they will not do common labor at 4s ($1) a day of eight hours, with a half-holiday on Saturdays, their complaint does not represent a substantial grievance. The estimated revenue of New Zealand for the current year is about $20,500,000. The expenditure is in excess of income.

In answer to your request for information as to the anomaly of the 6 o/o Santa Fe being quoted at 77 while the 5 o/o are selling at 87, I would say that everything connected with the finance of this Province is mysterious. The policy of our Government appears to be to keep the public in ignorance of the mechanism of their administration. I think, however, the apparent anomaly can be thus explained. The loan of 7 millions, the proceeds of which went, part to pay off the Murrietta Loan, part to increase the capital of the State Bank, and part evaporated to regions unknown, has only the Government guarantee, and consequently its quotations may rise and fall according to the punctuality of the payments of interest and amortization. The reminiscences of the Murrietta Loan are not such as to inspire confidence, but I believe the Provincial Bank is charged with the service of this debt. The 5 o/o must be the Railway Loan negtoiated by Dr Gonzalez, and as this is guaranteed by the splendidly paying lines, it is natural that although at a lower rate of interest, the stock should be more valuable than that with only the Government guarantee.

General Remarks—
The month past again shows an improvement in our exports and the inquiry for vessels continues, but although the want of suitable tonnage exists, the rates have not, as yet improved, and as the new crops have by the late rains been much detained in getting ready for shipment, I suppose, the shipping will not begin till the end of December or the beginning of January.
